

The Titusville Morning Herald. PUBLISHED EVERY THURSDAY. $2 00 Per Year in Advance.

MISCELLANEOUS.

CASTLE BROTHERS, PEIROLEUM BANK BLOCK, CORNER OF SPRING AND FRANKLIN STREETS.

TITUSVILLE, PA.

Have constantly on hand a large and well selected stock of gentlemen's

GOLD AND SILVER American Watches, Ladies' Gold Watches,

GOLD AND SILVER ORAINS, RINGS, LOCKETS, KEYS, ETC.

SILVER AND PLATED WARE, TEA SETS, CANNERS, CASES, BUTTER DISHES, SPOONS, &c.

MORTON'S GOLD PENS, the best in use. SPECTACLES, all styles and for all ages. HOTEL AND OFFICE CLOCKS, with calendar HOUSE CLOCKS, all styles.

PIANOS, MELODEONS, UPRIGHT AND PIANO FORTES, ALL THE LATEST PATENT FANES, &c.

ORGANS, SHEET MUSIC, STRINGS, &c., &c.

C. A. BROWN, In receiving every few days new supplies of the best

ESTY & CO'S COTTAGE ORGANS, TAYLOR & FAIRLEY'S HARMONIC MELODEONS AND PARLOR AND CHURCH ORGANS, MANON & HAMILTON'S CABINET ORGANS

He is also agent for the DE KUNN PATENT BOX SOUNDING BOARDS, PIANOS, STEINWAY & SONS, BRADRU AND HAZLETON BROTHERS, and others. N. B.—I AM SELLING CHEAP—ALMOST AT WHOLESALE PRICES.

Pianos Polished, Tuned and Repaired, and a work WARRANTED. O. A. BROWN, Petroleum Bank Block, Franklin street, Titusville, Pa.

CASH GROCERY HOUSE, The attention of the public is invited to the CHOICE ASSORTMENT OF

GROCERIES, PALMER'S, Corner Pine and Franklin Streets, consisting of the best

GUNPOWDER, RYSON, OOLONG AND JAPAN TEAS, SUGARS AND SYRUPS,

In great varieties. All kinds DRIED AND CANNED FRUITS, PICKLES PRESERVES, SELECT SPICES, JELLIES, BURNETT'S EXTRACTS, CALIFORNIA WINES

BABBITT'S SOAP IN BOXES FOR FAMILY USE, SWEET POTATOES, CRANBERRIES AND APPLES

AT WHOLESALE AND RETAIL. WOODEN WARE, BASKETS, BEST GRADES FAMILY FLOUR,

Flour, Wheat, Oats, Tobacco, Cigars and every thing else cheaply sold at a first class house. All goods sold at the lowest market rates and prompt delivery to any part of the city free of charge. Call and see and buy.

IF YOU WILL NOT WEAR READY MADE CLOTHING

GOODS MADE TO ORDER, call and see the splendid stock of samples, consisting of all shades of

BEAVERS, MELONS, TRICOTS, AND CASSIMERE. Also, MILK VELVET AND CASSIMERE VESTINGS at LOSEE'S No 1 East Spring street.

BRIGGS & SEVERANCE, General Agents for the WOOD & MANN PORTABLE ENGINES. Office over the First National Bank, Titusville, Pa.

J. T. BRIGGS, L. R. SEVERANCE, SWEET POTATOES, Very fine, just received from the South and for sale by H. M. HALL.

NEW MAPLE BUCKLE, from Ohio. FIFTY BARRELS GREEN APPLES just received.

ORANGES AND LEMONS by the box or dozen. DRIED AND CANNED FRUIT of all kinds. CRANBERRIES, fresh and in good order, at H. M. HALL'S FRUIT STORE.

HARDWARE.

F. H. EDDY & CO., Dealers in Foreign and Domestic

HARDWARE, IRON, STEEL, NAILS, ROPE, BELTING, TUNING

and all other goods pertaining to the oil business. A large variety of

STOVES, and AGENTS for the sale of the celebrated

"ORIENTAL," AND

Herring's Safes, Cleveland and Pitt

DRIVING PIPE, Manufacturers of

IRON, SHEET IRON, AND CUPPER WARE, BLACKSMITHS', MOLDERS AND HAND

BELLOWS, Just received, GLASS WARE, HYDRAULIC PUMPS, THERMOMETERS

AND PYROMETERS, for testing oil. A full stock of Machines and Carriage WHEELS.

We propose to keep a full stock of goods in our line and sell them

CHEAP FOR CASH. F. H. EDDY & CO.

SMITH & HINKLEY, HARDWARE MERCHANTS, DIAMOND ST., TITUSVILLE, PA.

We are now prepared to offer great inducements to the public, of articles in the line of

SHELF HARDWARE, CUTLERY, CARPENTERS' TOOLS, COOKERS' TOOLS, BLACKSMITHS' TOOLS,

EXTRA TUBING AND CABLE, ALL KINDS OF

OIL WELL SUPPLIES, IRON, NAILS, PLATED GOODS, TIN WARE, AND STOVES

OF ALL DESCRIPTIONS. STORE TRUCKS, REVOLVERS OF ALL KINDS, HOUSE FURNISHING GOODS, TIN WARE, COPPER WARE, &c.

We are the sole agents for the celebrated

"MORNING GLORY," the best Boon-Burning Stove in Market.

All kinds of Jobbing, Tin, Copper and Sheet Iron work done on short notice.

We intend to keep a supply of everything in our line, and to do business in a satisfactory manner to all our customers. Our facilities for getting goods are unequalled, and our present location very desirable.

Four Doors East of First National Bank, on Diamond Street.

By strict attention to business and the wants of our customers, we expect a liberal share of patronage.

SMITH & HINKLEY, Titusville, Pa.

Titusville Morning Herald.

Hydrophobia—A Young Lady the Victim—Her Sufferings.

From the Indianapolis Journal, April 2. Some eight weeks ago, Miss Selma Ellen, an intelligent young lady of twenty years, daughter of Mr. Harvey Eller, residing at Hick's station, on the Peru Railroad, in Hamilton county, was bitten by a rabid dog, while she was endeavouring to drive him out of the house. The wound was on the finger, and so very slight that it excited no alarm, although the dog was known to be mad. It was usual in cases of hydrophobia, the thought nothing more about the matter, and the morning of Monday, the 25th ultimo, when, on going to wash her face, the touch of the water "made her shudder, as she described it. The fearful truth flashed on her instantly, and being a lady of great self command, she simply said to her sister, "I am going to go mad."

"Can't live," adding that she would, however, "finish spinning the rolls" she was engaged upon. She worked on during the day, with some increase of the horrible symptoms, but nothing visible to others, and the next morning, on sitting down to the table, she remarked to the family, "You must take that water from the table or I can't eat anything." She ate but "little, and got up very early to go to work, again in the evening, she finished the roll of cloth, and the next day, on sitting down to the table, she was too far overcome to work, and while standing on the floor speaking to some of her family she began grinding her teeth, and directly after fell down in a fit, the four work on the table, her teeth grinding, and her body fully convulsed. Some of the younger children who were with her at the time ran out in great alarm, and the neighbors hurrying in found her in a most dire, in the same terrible condition but she so furiously at every one who touched her that it was impossible to do anything with her. The fire was removed to the porch, and the young lady placed on the bed, and Dr. Hooker called.

When he arrived she was again convulsed, and screaming at anything that approached her. A bloody froth was constantly issuing from her mouth, which she tried to spit at those around her. He caused her to be tied down in bed, and proceeded to administer medicine to relieve her. At a fixed interval she remonstrated, saying, "I must die, I know it, and I want to die in my senses so don't stupefy me with medicine." After another fit the doctor proposed another dose of morphia, and in fact she consented, but added, "You must not give it to me with water." But this remedy produced little effect. The awful paroxysms continued, with the same frightful suggestions of anguish sound and the same frantic efforts to bite. She bit the hands terribly, and bit pieces out of the pillow and bed clothes. Dr. A. C. Ruddle was also called in, but his assistance was as unavailing as that of Dr. Hooker. His belief, however, was that the case was hopeless, but at the evening, on that day Dr. Rooker determined to try the effect of "fracture of potassium," which had been recommended by some European physician in cases of hydrophobia. Dr. Ruddle happened to have a small quantity with him, it was at once administered, and the treatment has been steadily kept up ever since, till yesterday nearly two ounces had been given. The symptoms continued with little or no improvement, and the young lady died yesterday, when they were considered by her friends as hopeless. The case is a most remarkable one, and a great many physicians and hundreds of the people in the vicinity have visited her and some of our city physicians, we understand, will visit her to-day.

The case has no many been supposed, created a perfect crusade against the dogs in all the region about the city of Indianapolis, and the authorities of eight miles north and a general attack on their dog population a few days since, and killed all they could find. The prevalence of hydrophobia all over this state this winter, is singular. We hear of cases in every where, east, west, south and north. And the alarm in this line, as at least a score of lives horribly lost, attest.

The Burglar Mauled. From the New York Herald.

New facts and rumors in relation to the previous career of the burglar Mauled, shot in the West on Sunday morning last by officer Scott, of the Forty first precinct, are hourly coming to light. These prove him to have been a criminal of the first class in the township of Newton, Queens county, where he was well known, and a story is current that a year ago he took his wife and child out on Newton Creek for the ostensible purpose of fishing, and returned late in the evening without them, saying that the boat was capsized and that they were drowned by the crew. The story was never credited by those who knew him, but no evidence ever came to light to warrant his arrest or a legal investigation. Shortly after this, it is said that he married a young woman in the township, who was a

It will be remembered that a provision merchant named Frank Smith, doing business in Grand street, and residing in South First street, ran in that direction by a back street, and a burglar with a blackened face on the Saturday night previous to last Christmas day, shot at severely, and robbed of $1,300, which he had placed under his pillow when retiring to bed. The perpetrator of the bold crime was never seen, and it is now laid to Mauled for these reasons. A young man named McGlynn, who has known him from boyhood, states that he has frequently seen him with his face blackened, and when he inquired where it was, McGlynn would answer that he was employed in a laundry, which was known to be false. After he was killed Mr. Smith viewed his body and declared that his assailant was the perfect counterpart of the desperado, and if his face was blackened he would have done so as to his identity. Again, it has been ascertained by Captain Wagon that Mauled has been in the Kings County Savings Bank for the past eighteen months, and just after the shooting and robbery of Mr. Smith he deposited $200. These facts have the impression that Mauled committed the daring deed.

As to the murder of policeman John Hipwell, which occurred so mysteriously on the night of October 6, there is strong circumstantial evidence that Mauled committed the bloody deed under the same circumstances which led him to attempt the life of officer Scott. Yesterday at Bureau a young man named Burns, employed as an engineer by the Union Ferry Company, called on the authorities, and stated that at about the hour of its occurrence, he saw Mauled hurriedly enter the small frame building, which was then occupied and continued to occupy up to the time of his sudden taking off. This tenement is situated at the foot of Division avenue, and when Hipwell fell, his assailant was seen to run in that direction by a back street, and others there. This fact, with others equally strong, will be sworn at the Coroner's inquest on Friday night.

The above crimes, added to those already proved against Mauled, show him to have been the most cold-blooded villain of the age, and it is quite appropriate that the leading citizens of the community which was cursed by his presence, should get up, as they have, a testimonial to the faithful officer who brought his bad career to a sudden end. The wicked criminal was known as Henry Mauled, but his real name was John M. Mauled. He was a prudent, selfish thief, invested the proceeds of his burglaries in real estate, and there kept up a company, living none in the secluded cottage which he rented.

A bill has been introduced into the State Senate, proposing to organize a company to lay water pipes for conveying natural waters from Barabara to New York and intermediate points. The capital stock is fixed at $2,000,000.

In Search of a Daughter.

From the Detroit Free Press, April 2. A few days ago, a woman named Leonard, nee Crowley arrived in this city from Memphis, Tennessee, in search of a daughter, aged eleven years, who, according to her statement, was stolen away from her about six months ago, and has ever since been concealed until a short time ago, when she learned that her daughter was an inmate of the Academy of the Sacred Heart, in this city.

The story of the woman, who appeared really to be a victim of peculiar hardship, as she gave her history, is that she was granted a divorce from her husband, Thomas E. Leonard, on the 6th of August last, with an alimony, and the care of the child in question, and that her husband clandestinely gained possession of the child, and has kept her concealed from her knowledge ever since. Mrs. L., upon her arrival here, went immediately to the institution above named, and asked for her child, which was, of course, refused, but the Lady Superior telegraphed at once to the father, who arrived here by train on Saturday morning, fully prepared, as it seems, to contest the right of the mother to her child. He shows a decree of the court, signed, sealed and apparently properly attested, granting a divorce between the parties, but giving no alimony nor any care of the child to Mrs. L. This would seem to dispose of the case, but she has a letter from her attorney in the case informing her of the facts as stated, including the alimony and disposition of the child. She has also telegraphed for a certified copy of the record in the divorce case, and has in the meantime instituted proceedings for the recovery of her child.

This case is one of peculiar interest, if not of hardship, upon one or both sides, and the question, with which both parties enter upon its presentation, evinces the fact that each believes in the certainty of gaining his or her side of the question. The child, in the meantime, remains in the charge of the Lady Superior at the Academy of the Sacred Heart.

The Liquor Traffic in Boston. It is estimated that over two thousand men have been thrown out of employment by the closing up of the bar room trade in that city. At least five hundred stores in the city proper, East and South Boston, have been placed upon the street "to let." At the North End, which is used to look gay and lively inside of the liquor shops, now all appeared sad and gloomy.

At some of the places various placards are posted behind the deserted counters, such as: "Positively no liquor sold over this bar," "Strangers, please notice that drinks cannot be had at this bar," "Stamps are not redeemable over this counter," "Those who are dry will not stop here," "Liquor is sold here, but the premises are for sale," "The constables are looking at the clock for the appointed time when they will cut the verdict of the thirty once upon the earth."

All sorts of dogma are made to get a drink, and the use of clubs and other weapons is well understood among the knowing ones. Glasses and cups are used to get into use for the sale of "balm," but no money is paid on the premises. A large number of clubs have been formed, and delinquent houses fitted up for club use in different parts of the city. The wholesale and retail dealers have been doing a tremendous business by the package during the past week, and many a family call has been provided with a stock of old wine and liquor.

Some of the temperance brethren, it is said, have purchased a few packages during the week, for family use, making good wines, pies and for culinary purposes.

Saturday was the last day of grace for the public sale of ale, beer and cider at the bar, and many have been putting farewell to the wine. — Boston Herald.

Traveling Made Easy. On the railroads of Illinois there are sleeping cars with the enthusiastic newspapers of that region declare to be palaces—"luxuriously palaces."

They contain not only magnificent and comfortable sleeping coaches, but parlors, special smoking rooms, dining saloons, staterooms (strictly private), kitchens, and every convenience. The traveler can desire. Indeed, a person can enter one of these cars and enjoy a journey for twenty-four, thirty-six, or forty-eight hours, without getting out of it, and have better accommodations than can be found at any railroad eating house in the country. Each stateroom or section is provided with a full pull attached to a bell register in the waiting room adjoining the kitchen. By pulling this a servant is summoned and a meal for one or more persons is prepared within the car, and along twenty on thirty tables are set, and smoking hot it can be partaken of in the stateroom or dining hall, as may be preferred.

In one of these cars the grand saloon is supplied with a handsome cabinet organ for church services or dancing purposes.

MISCELLANEOUS.

TO-DAY.

Great Reduction in the Prices of

OVERCOATS,

LOSEE'S.

Also UNDERSHIRTS and DRAWERS

at Greatly Reduced Prices.

APRIL 8, 1867.

$500.00 REWARD.

LOST, between the Depot and Bush House, a POCKET BOOK containing between

TWENTY HUNDRED AND THIRTEEN HUNDRED DOLLARS

In National Currency. One National Bank Note of $100.00 each, and the balance in Fives and Tens, together with some papers. The above reward will be paid for the recovery of said pocket book and contents.

A. M. RALPH, Bush House, and JOHN COSLOWSKY,

At the old shop of Rues & Farel, Spring street, Titusville, Pa.

Furniture of all kinds repaired and warranted on short notice.

New articles of Furniture made to order. All kinds of Jobbing connected with the Furniture trade attended to with dispatch.

W. FITCHER SPOUT PUMPS, For Sale at Water Works. Hamilton, Stone and Stone, for sale separate. Also Deep Well Pumps, for sale on Wells, Force Pumps. Three second-hand Oliver Co. Saws for sale cheaply.

Office No. 1 Water's Frame Block.

MORNING HERALD PRINTING ESTABLISHMENT. PRINTED AND BOUND all kinds of oil and paper books, with neatness and dispatch. Office on Spring street, adjoining Commercial Bank.

SADDLERY.

J. J. McCURM, Manufacturer and Dealer in

HARNESSES, Saddles, Bridles, Trunks, Traveling

Bags, Whips, Robes, Blankets, SEED BAGS, &c.

Purchasing directly from first hands saving a Job for the profit, we are thereby enabled to sell as low as any Eastern Jobbing House.

SPRING STREET, Four Doors East of Petroleum Bank,

TITUSVILLE, PA.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PAINTS, PAINTING.

TALAMO & DOHERTY, PAINTERS.

Having this law firm, I am a partnership "open" to day,

Cor. Spring and Washington Sts., A PAINT STORE,

Whereby will keep on hand a full

FULL SUPPLY OF PURE WHITE LEAD,

Cobalt Oil, Turpentine, Putty, &c., &c., &c.

House and Sign Painting, PRESERVING, CHALKING, PAPER HANGING, GLAZING, CALCIMINING.

Master F. D. applied cordially to their friends for support, assuring them that the best of their efforts would be sustained in the future.

THE LION OF THE DAY. HILL'S CELEBRATED DECOCTION

OR HOARSENESS OR COUGH CANDY, Compounded from Twenty of the Most Celebrated, Safe and Salutary Cough Ingredients.

THIS AGREEABLE REMEDY is highly recommended for clearing the Voice and Relieving COUGHS, COLDS, CROUP, Irritation of the Throat, Whooping Cough, Asthma, Indigestion, Flatulence of the Stomach, Shortness of Breath, Pleurisy, Expectorations and all Diseases tending to Consumption.

Manufactured and Sold, Wholesale and Retail, by J. H. HILL, 46 Spring street, Titusville.

The Trade Supplied with Confectioneries of all kinds at the Lowest Manufacturing Rates (Cash and advance my stock).

MATHER'S OLD ESTABLISHED Photographic Gallery

up one flight of stairs, AMERICAN BLOCK, SPRING STREET, TITUSVILLE, PA.

LARGEST ROOMS IN TOWN. Photographs, Portraits, Ambrotypes, Gests, Double Portraits, (superior) Card Portraits, and all other styles known in the art. Copies from old pictures enlarged to any size required. A large assortment of Albums, Photo Albums, Card Albums, and all the latest styles of the Oil Regions constantly on hand. Landscapes view made to order. Terms reasonable.

FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE. Copy of the Report of the Committee of Awards of the AMERICAN INSTITUTE.

To the FLORENCE SEWING MACHINE Co. for the Best Family Sewing Machine.

SCOTT & CROSSMAN, Having just opened a

GROCERY AND PROVISION STORE,

on Pine street, in building formerly occupied by E. V. Patterson, where they will keep constantly on hand a choice and well

DRY GOODS.

CLOSING OUT AT COST

In order to make room for our Spring Stock we offer for sale for the

NEXT THIRTY DAYS

ANY PORTION OR ALL OF OUR IMMENSE STOCK OF

DRY GOODS, AND

READY-MADE CLOTHING

AT AND BELOW COST.

We mean what we say, all our Goods must and shall be sold at or below cost, by any sacrifice.

We have on hand in this assortment of

Cloths, Cassimeres and Overcoatings,

MARK UP TO ORDER AT THE SHORTEST NOTICE AND IN THE BEST STYLE

25 Per Cent. Cheaper than any House in the Oil Country.

THE LARGEST LINE OF FURNISHING GOODS IN THE CITY

Remember, 25 Per Cent. is Worth Saving.

STRAUS & STETHEIMER.

R. D. FLETCHER & CO.

CLOSING OUT THE BALANCE OF THEIR WINTER STOCK OF DRY GOODS REGARDLESS OF COST!

Where he has a never failing supply of

OATS, HAY, FLOUR, RICE, SALT,

POTATOES, ONIONS, APPLES, &c., &c., to be sold at the LOWEST CASH PRICES.

Our facilities for purchasing are such that we can offer ourselves we can offer than you can get elsewhere. Call and examine our stock before making your purchases.

BETTER INDUCEMENTS

CORNER OF PINE AND FRANKLIN STREETS, Also, Manufacturers and Dealers in FINE AND REMARK LUMBER.

A large stock of SEASONED LUMBER of all kinds, stored in our yard, for sale at Titusville, Pa., Sept. 10, 1866.

SCOTT & CROSSMAN.

The Titusville Morning Herald. RATE OF ADVERTISING.

One Line 10 Cents per Week. Two Lines 15 Cents per Week. Three Lines 20 Cents per Week. Four Lines 25 Cents per Week. Five Lines 30 Cents per Week. Six Lines 35 Cents per Week. Seven Lines 40 Cents per Week. Eight Lines 45 Cents per Week. Nine Lines 50 Cents per Week. Ten Lines 55 Cents per Week. Eleven Lines 60 Cents per Week. Twelve Lines 65 Cents per Week. Thirteen Lines 70 Cents per Week. Fourteen Lines 75 Cents per Week. Fifteen Lines 80 Cents per Week. Sixteen Lines 85 Cents per Week. Seventeen Lines 90 Cents per Week. Eighteen Lines 95 Cents per Week. Nineteen Lines 1.00 per Week. Twenty Lines 1.05 per Week. Twenty-one Lines 1.10 per Week. Twenty-two Lines 1.15 per Week. Twenty-three Lines 1.20 per Week. Twenty-four Lines 1.25 per Week. Twenty-five Lines 1.30 per Week. Twenty-six Lines 1.35 per Week. Twenty-seven Lines 1.40 per Week. Twenty-eight Lines 1.45 per Week. Twenty-nine Lines 1.50 per Week. Thirty Lines 1.55 per Week. Thirty-one Lines 1.60 per Week. Thirty-two Lines 1.65 per Week. Thirty-three Lines 1.70 per Week. Thirty-four Lines 1.75 per Week. Thirty-five Lines 1.80 per Week. Thirty-six Lines 1.85 per Week. Thirty-seven Lines 1.90 per Week. Thirty-eight Lines 1.95 per Week. Thirty-nine Lines 2.00 per Week. Forty Lines 2.05 per Week. Forty-one Lines 2.10 per Week. Forty-two Lines 2.15 per Week. Forty-three Lines 2.20 per Week. Forty-four Lines 2.25 per Week. Forty-five Lines 2.30 per Week. Forty-six Lines 2.35 per Week. Forty-seven Lines 2.40 per Week. Forty-eight Lines 2.45 per Week. Forty-nine Lines 2.50 per Week. Fifty Lines 2.55 per Week. Fifty-one Lines 2.60 per Week. Fifty-two Lines 2.65 per Week. Fifty-three Lines 2.70 per Week. Fifty-four Lines 2.75 per Week. Fifty-five Lines 2.80 per Week. Fifty-six Lines 2.85 per Week. Fifty-seven Lines 2.90 per Week. Fifty-eight Lines 2.95 per Week. Fifty-nine Lines 3.00 per Week. Sixty Lines 3.05 per Week. Sixty-one Lines 3.10 per Week. Sixty-two Lines 3.15 per Week. Sixty-three Lines 3.20 per Week. Sixty-four Lines 3.25 per Week. Sixty-five Lines 3.30 per Week. Sixty-six Lines 3.35 per Week. Sixty-seven Lines 3.40 per Week. Sixty-eight Lines 3.45 per Week. Sixty-nine Lines 3.50 per Week. Seventy Lines 3.55 per Week. Seventy-one Lines 3.60 per Week. Seventy-two Lines 3.65 per Week. Seventy-three Lines 3.70 per Week. Seventy-four Lines 3.75 per Week. Seventy-five Lines 3.80 per Week. Seventy-six Lines 3.85 per Week. Seventy-seven Lines 3.90 per Week. Seventy-eight Lines 3.95 per Week. Seventy-nine Lines 4.00 per Week. Eighty Lines 4.05 per Week. Eighty-one Lines 4.10 per Week. Eighty-two Lines 4.15 per Week. Eighty-three Lines 4.20 per Week. Eighty-four Lines 4.25 per Week. Eighty-five Lines 4.30 per Week. Eighty-six Lines 4.35 per Week. Eighty-seven Lines 4.40 per Week. Eighty-eight Lines 4.45 per Week. Eighty-nine Lines 4.50 per Week. Ninety Lines 4.55 per Week. Ninety-one Lines 4.60 per Week. Ninety-two Lines 4.65 per Week. Ninety-three Lines 4.70 per Week. Ninety-four Lines 4.75 per Week. Ninety-five Lines 4.80 per Week. Ninety-six Lines 4.85 per Week. Ninety-seven Lines 4.90 per Week. Ninety-eight Lines 4.95 per Week. Ninety-nine Lines 5.00 per Week. One Hundred Lines 5.05 per Week. One Hundred and one Lines 5.10 per Week. One Hundred and two Lines 5.15 per Week. One Hundred and three Lines 5.20 per Week. One Hundred and four Lines 5.25 per Week. One Hundred and five Lines 5.30 per Week. One Hundred and six Lines 5.35 per Week. One Hundred and seven Lines 5.40 per Week. One Hundred and eight Lines 5.45 per Week. One Hundred and nine Lines 5.50 per Week. One Hundred and ten Lines 5.55 per Week. One Hundred and eleven Lines 5.60 per Week. One Hundred and twelve Lines 5.65 per Week. One Hundred and thirteen Lines 5.70 per Week. One Hundred and fourteen Lines 5.75 per Week. One Hundred and fifteen Lines 5.80 per Week. One Hundred and sixteen Lines 5.85 per Week. One Hundred and seventeen Lines 5.90 per Week. One Hundred and eighteen Lines 5.95 per Week. One Hundred and nineteen Lines 6.00 per Week. One Hundred and twenty Lines 6.05 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-one Lines 6.10 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-two Lines 6.15 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-three Lines 6.20 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-four Lines 6.25 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-five Lines 6.30 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-six Lines 6.35 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-seven Lines 6.40 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-eight Lines 6.45 per Week. One Hundred and twenty-nine Lines 6.50 per Week. One Hundred and thirty Lines 6.55 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-one Lines 6.60 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-two Lines 6.65 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-three Lines 6.70 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-four Lines 6.75 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-five Lines 6.80 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-six Lines 6.85 per Week. One Hundred and thirty-seven Lines 6.90

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS TO-DAY.
Herald at 10, Friday evening next.
Central Pacific Railroad—Pike & Hatch.
Pike & Hatch—Pike & Hatch.
Herald at 10, Friday evening next.
Social Dances—A. Frost, Pioneer.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A meeting of the Republican County Committee will be held at the Court House in Meadville on Monday, April 15th, at 10 o'clock p.m., for the purpose of appointing delegates to the Union Republican State Convention, and fixing a time for holding the primary election for a delegate to the Republican State Convention.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Republican County Committee is requested to meet at Meadville one week from today. The call, which will be found in another column, is signed by R. Lytle White, Chairman. The Committee is the same selected by the Convention of Return Judges which put in nomination the ticket elected last fall, and the success of that ticket is the best conceivable endorsement of the regularity of those nominations. It will be remembered that a number of the Return Judges, assuming to represent the party, placed another ticket in nomination, having thrown out the official returns of the primary meeting at Titusville, but their candidates were all defeated. As a last resort, the leaders of this hotting faction went over to the support of the Democratic candidates, and with the assistance of the Meadville Journal, which had also bolted the regular nominations, they secured their best success in defeating the Republican County and Congressional ticket. But it was of no avail. The masses of the party adhered to the regular nominations, and Mr. Finney, Mr. Chase and Mr. Peck, against whom the opposition was especially concentrated, were elected by unprecedented majorities.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

But notwithstanding this emphatic repudiation of a bolting clique, it would appear that they are not only still anxious to belong to the Republican party, but are already renewing the work of disorganization by attempting to supplant the Republican County Committee. Mr. C. W. Mead has issued a call to the Committee appointed by the Pettis Convention, and styles them the Republican County Committee, subscribing himself Chairman. If he thinks there is any considerable number of Republicans in this section who are willing to follow the lead of men who voted for McCann for Congress, and the "straight Democratic ticket," he will win by his calculation. The feeling in Eastern Crawford is for Union, and no true Republican will be influenced by any other consideration. They will repudiate every measure designed to create dissension in the party ranks, and least of all will they acknowledge political leadership in renegades from their own party in its hour of greatest trial and necessity. We presume that at least one-half of Mr. Mead's Committee (who accepted the regular nominations) are now in process of the Regular Committee, and the same time, and the same spirit. This will be a great help to the party, and Mr. Mead and his followers will be reduced to the Democratic fold. If they desire to forsake the Union and become again Republicans, they must take back seats till they have done the deed of their repentance.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Chicago Tribune, the oldest paper in the West, and which has few if any superiors in the country, has for its London correspondent an English authoress who is now writing up the social condition of England in most stylish style. The miseries of the operatives in English factories, their scanty, unwholesome diet, their petty wages and exacting, oppressive hours, have been often depicted. The South has always been England with her Paradise, when she turned up her eyes in holy horror at slavery, and reminded her that "Christy should begin at home," that she had white slavery in her midst, and around the neck of her poor. But the writer in the Tribune turns her attention to the agricultural class, and presents a picture anything but creditable to British justice. The single item of farm wages speaks volumes of the depression and poverty of those who work the soil in England. What would a farm laborer at the North who can earn on an average twenty dollars a month think of supporting his family on eleven or twelve shillings sterling or less than three dollars a week? The wages paid in England. No wonder that the children in this class get little schooling, and that they are obliged to earn their way from an early age—the day when he is big enough to turn the handle of a chaff cutter, and the girl when she is old enough to pull out tykes, or drop potatoes. The girl's next step in life is to enter service, to find a "place," if she fails in the attempt, no resource for her but field labor. The attempt of philanthropists to run evening schools for the benefit of this juvenile class is absurd; worn out by the fatigues of the day's work, they have no curiosity and no spirit for applying their minds to study. The stolidity of lower ranks of society in England, the unimpaired patience with which they suffer these slings, is something astonishing to an American. Their loyalty, their reverence, or rather homage to rank, seems bred in their bones, a part of their religion. This state of subservience, of servility, is well fostered by the practice of dole out alms, even in churches. Says the writer:

"The state of religion prevails in these districts very according to the state and amount of influence exerted by the parish magister, usually the vicar, squire, or largest resident farmer. In parishes where the church is dominant the clergyman is revered as an almost omnipotent power, and is looked up to with the most rigidly observed, but with, I fear, false conceptions of the true object of worship, which is blended in strange confusion with civil duties and civilly usually paid for by the parishioners in a sum of money at the church door, after Sunday morning service, is still continued in some places. I know one instance in my own county of the lady of the manor of the parish, who has a few doors after service to contribute packages of alms and an occasional shilling to the poor old folks. She died very recently, and I need scarcely say, the loss of her gifts is much deplored. 'At one of her old pensioners to me, who was a handsome old lady and liked to be honored. 'Some of our village churches must be seen to be appreciated. Their situation is usually well chosen, being often built in the square park or adjoining the vicarage garden, sometimes approached by an avenue of fir or yew. Close to the church door, since passed over by the parishioners, is a small building, which is the site of the vicar's house, and is a building for the shelter of the latter."

"The church is generally of the simplest kind. A low, square building, with latticed sides and containing a single bell, sometimes takes the place of a spire or steeple. Within the square's new often occupies one-third of the edifice. It is, indeed, a good sized, square room, and its exterior is embellished by a warm, open, oak-barked barrier from the other 'dearly beloved brethren.' Service in former times was not commenced until the Squire's arrival, and even now, no one afterwards thinks of moving until the occupant of that pew has risen. Then there are the wide-headed high-backed pews, the antique front of strange design, the quality carved desk and pulpit, with the somewhat ostentatious tabernacle of the long forgotten virtues of one whose voice formerly resounded from that desk and pulpit, everything eminently suggestive of the past, and tending to recall the simple primitive faith of those who built the temple and kneel forth within its walls."

This reads like a page of Scott or Tennyson, and shows that the democratical tenets has as yet but slightly permeated even English society, which boasts of its enlightenment and practical freedom and justice. It proves nothing to the contrary to show the lowliest born may reach the woodcock. Practically, there is a monopoly not only of the land, but of educational advantages, and this inequality will continue as long as the masses are denied the ballot. The Reform Bill in England corresponds to the act of reconstruction in this country, and is as full of promise and pregnant with power to the classes oppressed by its beneficent operation.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A new stock of spring clothing, at Carier's.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Republican County Committee are requested to meet at Meadville one week from today. The call, which will be found in another column, is signed by R. Lytle White, Chairman. The Committee is the same selected by the Convention of Return Judges which put in nomination the ticket elected last fall, and the success of that ticket is the best conceivable endorsement of the regularity of those nominations. It will be remembered that a number of the Return Judges, assuming to represent the party, placed another ticket in nomination, having thrown out the official returns of the primary meeting at Titusville, but their candidates were all defeated. As a last resort, the leaders of this hotting faction went over to the support of the Democratic candidates, and with the assistance of the Meadville Journal, which had also bolted the regular nominations, they secured their best success in defeating the Republican County and Congressional ticket. But it was of no avail. The masses of the party adhered to the regular nominations, and Mr. Finney, Mr. Chase and Mr. Peck, against whom the opposition was especially concentrated, were elected by unprecedented majorities.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

But notwithstanding this emphatic repudiation of a bolting clique, it would appear that they are not only still anxious to belong to the Republican party, but are already renewing the work of disorganization by attempting to supplant the Republican County Committee. Mr. C. W. Mead has issued a call to the Committee appointed by the Pettis Convention, and styles them the Republican County Committee, subscribing himself Chairman. If he thinks there is any considerable number of Republicans in this section who are willing to follow the lead of men who voted for McCann for Congress, and the "straight Democratic ticket," he will win by his calculation. The feeling in Eastern Crawford is for Union, and no true Republican will be influenced by any other consideration. They will repudiate every measure designed to create dissension in the party ranks, and least of all will they acknowledge political leadership in renegades from their own party in its hour of greatest trial and necessity. We presume that at least one-half of Mr. Mead's Committee (who accepted the regular nominations) are now in process of the Regular Committee, and the same time, and the same spirit. This will be a great help to the party, and Mr. Mead and his followers will be reduced to the Democratic fold. If they desire to forsake the Union and become again Republicans, they must take back seats till they have done the deed of their repentance.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Chicago Tribune, the oldest paper in the West, and which has few if any superiors in the country, has for its London correspondent an English authoress who is now writing up the social condition of England in most stylish style. The miseries of the operatives in English factories, their scanty, unwholesome diet, their petty wages and exacting, oppressive hours, have been often depicted. The South has always been England with her Paradise, when she turned up her eyes in holy horror at slavery, and reminded her that "Christy should begin at home," that she had white slavery in her midst, and around the neck of her poor. But the writer in the Tribune turns her attention to the agricultural class, and presents a picture anything but creditable to British justice. The single item of farm wages speaks volumes of the depression and poverty of those who work the soil in England. What would a farm laborer at the North who can earn on an average twenty dollars a month think of supporting his family on eleven or twelve shillings sterling or less than three dollars a week? The wages paid in England. No wonder that the children in this class get little schooling, and that they are obliged to earn their way from an early age—the day when he is big enough to turn the handle of a chaff cutter, and the girl when she is old enough to pull out tykes, or drop potatoes. The girl's next step in life is to enter service, to find a "place," if she fails in the attempt, no resource for her but field labor. The attempt of philanthropists to run evening schools for the benefit of this juvenile class is absurd; worn out by the fatigues of the day's work, they have no curiosity and no spirit for applying their minds to study. The stolidity of lower ranks of society in England, the unimpaired patience with which they suffer these slings, is something astonishing to an American. Their loyalty, their reverence, or rather homage to rank, seems bred in their bones, a part of their religion. This state of subservience, of servility, is well fostered by the practice of dole out alms, even in churches. Says the writer:

"The state of religion prevails in these districts very according to the state and amount of influence exerted by the parish magister, usually the vicar, squire, or largest resident farmer. In parishes where the church is dominant the clergyman is revered as an almost omnipotent power, and is looked up to with the most rigidly observed, but with, I fear, false conceptions of the true object of worship, which is blended in strange confusion with civil duties and civilly usually paid for by the parishioners in a sum of money at the church door, after Sunday morning service, is still continued in some places. I know one instance in my own county of the lady of the manor of the parish, who has a few doors after service to contribute packages of alms and an occasional shilling to the poor old folks. She died very recently, and I need scarcely say, the loss of her gifts is much deplored. 'At one of her old pensioners to me, who was a handsome old lady and liked to be honored. 'Some of our village churches must be seen to be appreciated. Their situation is usually well chosen, being often built in the square park or adjoining the vicarage garden, sometimes approached by an avenue of fir or yew. Close to the church door, since passed over by the parishioners, is a small building, which is the site of the vicar's house, and is a building for the shelter of the latter."

"The church is generally of the simplest kind. A low, square building, with latticed sides and containing a single bell, sometimes takes the place of a spire or steeple. Within the square's new often occupies one-third of the edifice. It is, indeed, a good sized, square room, and its exterior is embellished by a warm, open, oak-barked barrier from the other 'dearly beloved brethren.' Service in former times was not commenced until the Squire's arrival, and even now, no one afterwards thinks of moving until the occupant of that pew has risen. Then there are the wide-headed high-backed pews, the antique front of strange design, the quality carved desk and pulpit, with the somewhat ostentatious tabernacle of the long forgotten virtues of one whose voice formerly resounded from that desk and pulpit, everything eminently suggestive of the past, and tending to recall the simple primitive faith of those who built the temple and kneel forth within its walls."

This reads like a page of Scott or Tennyson, and shows that the democratical tenets has as yet but slightly permeated even English society, which boasts of its enlightenment and practical freedom and justice. It proves nothing to the contrary to show the lowliest born may reach the woodcock. Practically, there is a monopoly not only of the land, but of educational advantages, and this inequality will continue as long as the masses are denied the ballot. The Reform Bill in England corresponds to the act of reconstruction in this country, and is as full of promise and pregnant with power to the classes oppressed by its beneficent operation.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A new stock of spring clothing, at Carier's.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Republican County Committee are requested to meet at Meadville one week from today. The call, which will be found in another column, is signed by R. Lytle White, Chairman. The Committee is the same selected by the Convention of Return Judges which put in nomination the ticket elected last fall, and the success of that ticket is the best conceivable endorsement of the regularity of those nominations. It will be remembered that a number of the Return Judges, assuming to represent the party, placed another ticket in nomination, having thrown out the official returns of the primary meeting at Titusville, but their candidates were all defeated. As a last resort, the leaders of this hotting faction went over to the support of the Democratic candidates, and with the assistance of the Meadville Journal, which had also bolted the regular nominations, they secured their best success in defeating the Republican County and Congressional ticket. But it was of no avail. The masses of the party adhered to the regular nominations, and Mr. Finney, Mr. Chase and Mr. Peck, against whom the opposition was especially concentrated, were elected by unprecedented majorities.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

But notwithstanding this emphatic repudiation of a bolting clique, it would appear that they are not only still anxious to belong to the Republican party, but are already renewing the work of disorganization by attempting to supplant the Republican County Committee. Mr. C. W. Mead has issued a call to the Committee appointed by the Pettis Convention, and styles them the Republican County Committee, subscribing himself Chairman. If he thinks there is any considerable number of Republicans in this section who are willing to follow the lead of men who voted for McCann for Congress, and the "straight Democratic ticket," he will win by his calculation. The feeling in Eastern Crawford is for Union, and no true Republican will be influenced by any other consideration. They will repudiate every measure designed to create dissension in the party ranks, and least of all will they acknowledge political leadership in renegades from their own party in its hour of greatest trial and necessity. We presume that at least one-half of Mr. Mead's Committee (who accepted the regular nominations) are now in process of the Regular Committee, and the same time, and the same spirit. This will be a great help to the party, and Mr. Mead and his followers will be reduced to the Democratic fold. If they desire to forsake the Union and become again Republicans, they must take back seats till they have done the deed of their repentance.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Chicago Tribune, the oldest paper in the West, and which has few if any superiors in the country, has for its London correspondent an English authoress who is now writing up the social condition of England in most stylish style. The miseries of the operatives in English factories, their scanty, unwholesome diet, their petty wages and exacting, oppressive hours, have been often depicted. The South has always been England with her Paradise, when she turned up her eyes in holy horror at slavery, and reminded her that "Christy should begin at home," that she had white slavery in her midst, and around the neck of her poor. But the writer in the Tribune turns her attention to the agricultural class, and presents a picture anything but creditable to British justice. The single item of farm wages speaks volumes of the depression and poverty of those who work the soil in England. What would a farm laborer at the North who can earn on an average twenty dollars a month think of supporting his family on eleven or twelve shillings sterling or less than three dollars a week? The wages paid in England. No wonder that the children in this class get little schooling, and that they are obliged to earn their way from an early age—the day when he is big enough to turn the handle of a chaff cutter, and the girl when she is old enough to pull out tykes, or drop potatoes. The girl's next step in life is to enter service, to find a "place," if she fails in the attempt, no resource for her but field labor. The attempt of philanthropists to run evening schools for the benefit of this juvenile class is absurd; worn out by the fatigues of the day's work, they have no curiosity and no spirit for applying their minds to study. The stolidity of lower ranks of society in England, the unimpaired patience with which they suffer these slings, is something astonishing to an American. Their loyalty, their reverence, or rather homage to rank, seems bred in their bones, a part of their religion. This state of subservience, of servility, is well fostered by the practice of dole out alms, even in churches. Says the writer:

"The state of religion prevails in these districts very according to the state and amount of influence exerted by the parish magister, usually the vicar, squire, or largest resident farmer. In parishes where the church is dominant the clergyman is revered as an almost omnipotent power, and is looked up to with the most rigidly observed, but with, I fear, false conceptions of the true object of worship, which is blended in strange confusion with civil duties and civilly usually paid for by the parishioners in a sum of money at the church door, after Sunday morning service, is still continued in some places. I know one instance in my own county of the lady of the manor of the parish, who has a few doors after service to contribute packages of alms and an occasional shilling to the poor old folks. She died very recently, and I need scarcely say, the loss of her gifts is much deplored. 'At one of her old pensioners to me, who was a handsome old lady and liked to be honored. 'Some of our village churches must be seen to be appreciated. Their situation is usually well chosen, being often built in the square park or adjoining the vicarage garden, sometimes approached by an avenue of fir or yew. Close to the church door, since passed over by the parishioners, is a small building, which is the site of the vicar's house, and is a building for the shelter of the latter."

"The church is generally of the simplest kind. A low, square building, with latticed sides and containing a single bell, sometimes takes the place of a spire or steeple. Within the square's new often occupies one-third of the edifice. It is, indeed, a good sized, square room, and its exterior is embellished by a warm, open, oak-barked barrier from the other 'dearly beloved brethren.' Service in former times was not commenced until the Squire's arrival, and even now, no one afterwards thinks of moving until the occupant of that pew has risen. Then there are the wide-headed high-backed pews, the antique front of strange design, the quality carved desk and pulpit, with the somewhat ostentatious tabernacle of the long forgotten virtues of one whose voice formerly resounded from that desk and pulpit, everything eminently suggestive of the past, and tending to recall the simple primitive faith of those who built the temple and kneel forth within its walls."

This reads like a page of Scott or Tennyson, and shows that the democratical tenets has as yet but slightly permeated even English society, which boasts of its enlightenment and practical freedom and justice. It proves nothing to the contrary to show the lowliest born may reach the woodcock. Practically, there is a monopoly not only of the land, but of educational advantages, and this inequality will continue as long as the masses are denied the ballot. The Reform Bill in England corresponds to the act of reconstruction in this country, and is as full of promise and pregnant with power to the classes oppressed by its beneficent operation.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A new stock of spring clothing, at Carier's.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Republican County Committee are requested to meet at Meadville one week from today. The call, which will be found in another column, is signed by R. Lytle White, Chairman. The Committee is the same selected by the Convention of Return Judges which put in nomination the ticket elected last fall, and the success of that ticket is the best conceivable endorsement of the regularity of those nominations. It will be remembered that a number of the Return Judges, assuming to represent the party, placed another ticket in nomination, having thrown out the official returns of the primary meeting at Titusville, but their candidates were all defeated. As a last resort, the leaders of this hotting faction went over to the support of the Democratic candidates, and with the assistance of the Meadville Journal, which had also bolted the regular nominations, they secured their best success in defeating the Republican County and Congressional ticket. But it was of no avail. The masses of the party adhered to the regular nominations, and Mr. Finney, Mr. Chase and Mr. Peck, against whom the opposition was especially concentrated, were elected by unprecedented majorities.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

But notwithstanding this emphatic repudiation of a bolting clique, it would appear that they are not only still anxious to belong to the Republican party, but are already renewing the work of disorganization by attempting to supplant the Republican County Committee. Mr. C. W. Mead has issued a call to the Committee appointed by the Pettis Convention, and styles them the Republican County Committee, subscribing himself Chairman. If he thinks there is any considerable number of Republicans in this section who are willing to follow the lead of men who voted for McCann for Congress, and the "straight Democratic ticket," he will win by his calculation. The feeling in Eastern Crawford is for Union, and no true Republican will be influenced by any other consideration. They will repudiate every measure designed to create dissension in the party ranks, and least of all will they acknowledge political leadership in renegades from their own party in its hour of greatest trial and necessity. We presume that at least one-half of Mr. Mead's Committee (who accepted the regular nominations) are now in process of the Regular Committee, and the same time, and the same spirit. This will be a great help to the party, and Mr. Mead and his followers will be reduced to the Democratic fold. If they desire to forsake the Union and become again Republicans, they must take back seats till they have done the deed of their repentance.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Chicago Tribune, the oldest paper in the West, and which has few if any superiors in the country, has for its London correspondent an English authoress who is now writing up the social condition of England in most stylish style. The miseries of the operatives in English factories, their scanty, unwholesome diet, their petty wages and exacting, oppressive hours, have been often depicted. The South has always been England with her Paradise, when she turned up her eyes in holy horror at slavery, and reminded her that "Christy should begin at home," that she had white slavery in her midst, and around the neck of her poor. But the writer in the Tribune turns her attention to the agricultural class, and presents a picture anything but creditable to British justice. The single item of farm wages speaks volumes of the depression and poverty of those who work the soil in England. What would a farm laborer at the North who can earn on an average twenty dollars a month think of supporting his family on eleven or twelve shillings sterling or less than three dollars a week? The wages paid in England. No wonder that the children in this class get little schooling, and that they are obliged to earn their way from an early age—the day when he is big enough to turn the handle of a chaff cutter, and the girl when she is old enough to pull out tykes, or drop potatoes. The girl's next step in life is to enter service, to find a "place," if she fails in the attempt, no resource for her but field labor. The attempt of philanthropists to run evening schools for the benefit of this juvenile class is absurd; worn out by the fatigues of the day's work, they have no curiosity and no spirit for applying their minds to study. The stolidity of lower ranks of society in England, the unimpaired patience with which they suffer these slings, is something astonishing to an American. Their loyalty, their reverence, or rather homage to rank, seems bred in their bones, a part of their religion. This state of subservience, of servility, is well fostered by the practice of dole out alms, even in churches. Says the writer:

"The state of religion prevails in these districts very according to the state and amount of influence exerted by the parish magister, usually the vicar, squire, or largest resident farmer. In parishes where the church is dominant the clergyman is revered as an almost omnipotent power, and is looked up to with the most rigidly observed, but with, I fear, false conceptions of the true object of worship, which is blended in strange confusion with civil duties and civilly usually paid for by the parishioners in a sum of money at the church door, after Sunday morning service, is still continued in some places. I know one instance in my own county of the lady of the manor of the parish, who has a few doors after service to contribute packages of alms and an occasional shilling to the poor old folks. She died very recently, and I need scarcely say, the loss of her gifts is much deplored. 'At one of her old pensioners to me, who was a handsome old lady and liked to be honored. 'Some of our village churches must be seen to be appreciated. Their situation is usually well chosen, being often built in the square park or adjoining the vicarage garden, sometimes approached by an avenue of fir or yew. Close to the church door, since passed over by the parishioners, is a small building, which is the site of the vicar's house, and is a building for the shelter of the latter."

"The church is generally of the simplest kind. A low, square building, with latticed sides and containing a single bell, sometimes takes the place of a spire or steeple. Within the square's new often occupies one-third of the edifice. It is, indeed, a good sized, square room, and its exterior is embellished by a warm, open, oak-barked barrier from the other 'dearly beloved brethren.' Service in former times was not commenced until the Squire's arrival, and even now, no one afterwards thinks of moving until the occupant of that pew has risen. Then there are the wide-headed high-backed pews, the antique front of strange design, the quality carved desk and pulpit, with the somewhat ostentatious tabernacle of the long forgotten virtues of one whose voice formerly resounded from that desk and pulpit, everything eminently suggestive of the past, and tending to recall the simple primitive faith of those who built the temple and kneel forth within its walls."

This reads like a page of Scott or Tennyson, and shows that the democratical tenets has as yet but slightly permeated even English society, which boasts of its enlightenment and practical freedom and justice. It proves nothing to the contrary to show the lowliest born may reach the woodcock. Practically, there is a monopoly not only of the land, but of educational advantages, and this inequality will continue as long as the masses are denied the ballot. The Reform Bill in England corresponds to the act of reconstruction in this country, and is as full of promise and pregnant with power to the classes oppressed by its beneficent operation.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A new stock of spring clothing, at Carier's.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Republican County Committee are requested to meet at Meadville one week from today. The call, which will be found in another column, is signed by R. Lytle White, Chairman. The Committee is the same selected by the Convention of Return Judges which put in nomination the ticket elected last fall, and the success of that ticket is the best conceivable endorsement of the regularity of those nominations. It will be remembered that a number of the Return Judges, assuming to represent the party, placed another ticket in nomination, having thrown out the official returns of the primary meeting at Titusville, but their candidates were all defeated. As a last resort, the leaders of this hotting faction went over to the support of the Democratic candidates, and with the assistance of the Meadville Journal, which had also bolted the regular nominations, they secured their best success in defeating the Republican County and Congressional ticket. But it was of no avail. The masses of the party adhered to the regular nominations, and Mr. Finney, Mr. Chase and Mr. Peck, against whom the opposition was especially concentrated, were elected by unprecedented majorities.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

But notwithstanding this emphatic repudiation of a bolting clique, it would appear that they are not only still anxious to belong to the Republican party, but are already renewing the work of disorganization by attempting to supplant the Republican County Committee. Mr. C. W. Mead has issued a call to the Committee appointed by the Pettis Convention, and styles them the Republican County Committee, subscribing himself Chairman. If he thinks there is any considerable number of Republicans in this section who are willing to follow the lead of men who voted for McCann for Congress, and the "straight Democratic ticket," he will win by his calculation. The feeling in Eastern Crawford is for Union, and no true Republican will be influenced by any other consideration. They will repudiate every measure designed to create dissension in the party ranks, and least of all will they acknowledge political leadership in renegades from their own party in its hour of greatest trial and necessity. We presume that at least one-half of Mr. Mead's Committee (who accepted the regular nominations) are now in process of the Regular Committee, and the same time, and the same spirit. This will be a great help to the party, and Mr. Mead and his followers will be reduced to the Democratic fold. If they desire to forsake the Union and become again Republicans, they must take back seats till they have done the deed of their repentance.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

The Chicago Tribune, the oldest paper in the West, and which has few if any superiors in the country, has for its London correspondent an English authoress who is now writing up the social condition of England in most stylish style. The miseries of the operatives in English factories, their scanty, unwholesome diet, their petty wages and exacting, oppressive hours, have been often depicted. The South has always been England with her Paradise, when she turned up her eyes in holy horror at slavery, and reminded her that "Christy should begin at home," that she had white slavery in her midst, and around the neck of her poor. But the writer in the Tribune turns her attention to the agricultural class, and presents a picture anything but creditable to British justice. The single item of farm wages speaks volumes of the depression and poverty of those who work the soil in England. What would a farm laborer at the North who can earn on an average twenty dollars a month think of supporting his family on eleven or twelve shillings sterling or less than three dollars a week? The wages paid in England. No wonder that the children in this class get little schooling, and that they are obliged to earn their way from an early age—the day when he is big enough to turn the handle of a chaff cutter, and the girl when she is old enough to pull out tykes, or drop potatoes. The girl's next step in life is to enter service, to find a "place," if she fails in the attempt, no resource for her but field labor. The attempt of philanthropists to run evening schools for the benefit of this juvenile class is absurd; worn out by the fatigues of the day's work, they have no curiosity and no spirit for applying their minds to study. The stolidity of lower ranks of society in England, the unimpaired patience with which they suffer these slings, is something astonishing to an American. Their loyalty, their reverence, or rather homage to rank, seems bred in their bones, a part of their religion. This state of subservience, of servility, is well fostered by the practice of dole out alms, even in churches. Says the writer:

"The state of religion prevails in these districts very according to the state and amount of influence exerted by the parish magister, usually the vicar, squire, or largest resident farmer. In parishes where the church is dominant the clergyman is revered as an almost omnipotent power, and is looked up to with the most rigidly observed, but with, I fear, false conceptions of the true object of worship, which is blended in strange confusion with civil duties and civilly usually paid for by the parishioners in a sum of money at the church door, after Sunday morning service, is still continued in some places. I know one instance in my own county of the lady of the manor of the parish, who has a few doors after service to contribute packages of alms and an occasional shilling to the poor old folks. She died very recently, and I need scarcely say, the loss of her gifts is much deplored. 'At one of her old pensioners to me, who was a handsome old lady and liked to be honored. 'Some of our village churches must be seen to be appreciated. Their situation is usually well chosen, being often built in the square park or adjoining the vicarage garden, sometimes approached by an avenue of fir or yew. Close to the church door, since passed over by the parishioners, is a small building, which is the site of the vicar's house, and is a building for the shelter of the latter."

"The church is generally of the simplest kind. A low, square building, with latticed sides and containing a single bell, sometimes takes the place of a spire or steeple. Within the square's new often occupies one-third of the edifice. It is, indeed, a good sized, square room, and its exterior is embellished by a warm, open, oak-barked barrier from the other 'dearly beloved brethren.' Service in former times was not commenced until the Squire's arrival, and even now, no one afterwards thinks of moving until the occupant of that pew has risen. Then there are the wide-headed high-backed pews, the antique front of strange design, the quality carved desk and pulpit, with the somewhat ostentatious tabernacle of the long forgotten virtues of one whose voice formerly resounded from that desk and pulpit, everything eminently suggestive of the past, and tending to recall the simple primitive faith of those who built the temple and kneel forth within its walls."

This reads like a page of Scott or Tennyson, and shows that the democratical tenets has as yet but slightly permeated even English society, which boasts of its enlightenment and practical freedom and justice. It proves nothing to the contrary to show the lowliest born may reach the woodcock. Practically, there is a monopoly not only of the land, but of educational advantages, and this inequality will continue as long as the masses are denied the ballot. The Reform Bill in England corresponds to the act of reconstruction in this country, and is as full of promise and pregnant with power to the classes oppressed by its beneficent operation.

REPUBLICAN COUNTY COMMITTEE.

A new stock of spring clothing, at Carier's.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

English Thought and Gold.—English thought and gold, power, drilling, mining, etc. from 8 to 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100, 101, 102, 103, 104, 105, 106, 107, 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 113, 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, 123, 124, 125, 126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 131, 132, 133, 134, 135, 136, 137, 138, 139, 140, 141, 142, 143, 144, 145, 146, 147, 148, 149, 150, 151, 152, 153, 154, 155, 156, 157, 158, 159, 160, 161, 162, 163, 164, 165, 166, 167, 168, 169, 170, 171, 172, 173, 174, 175, 176, 177, 178, 179, 180, 181, 182, 183, 184, 185, 186, 187, 188, 189, 190, 191, 192, 193, 194, 195, 196, 197, 198, 199, 200, 201, 202, 203, 204, 205, 206, 207, 208, 209, 210, 211, 212, 213, 214, 215, 216, 217, 218, 219, 220, 221, 222, 223, 224, 225, 226, 227, 228, 229, 230, 231, 232, 233, 234, 235, 236, 237, 238, 239, 240, 241, 242, 243, 244, 245, 246, 247, 248, 249, 250, 251, 252, 253, 254, 255, 256, 257, 258, 259, 260, 261, 262, 263, 264, 265, 266, 267, 268, 269, 270, 271, 272, 273, 274, 275, 276, 277, 278, 279, 280, 281, 282, 283, 284, 285, 286, 287, 288, 289, 290, 291, 292, 293, 294, 295, 296, 297, 298, 299, 300, 301, 302, 303, 304, 305, 306, 307, 308, 309, 310, 311, 312, 313, 314, 315, 316, 317, 318, 319, 320, 321, 322, 323, 324, 325, 326, 327, 328, 329, 330, 331, 332, 333, 334, 335, 336, 337, 338, 339, 340, 341, 342, 343, 344, 345, 346, 347, 348, 349, 350, 351, 352, 353, 354, 355, 356, 357, 358, 359, 360, 361, 362, 363, 364, 365, 366, 367, 368, 369, 370, 371, 372, 373, 374, 375, 376, 377, 378, 379, 380, 381, 382, 383, 384, 385, 386, 387, 388, 389, 390, 391, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396,

